HARVARD CREW - THE TRADITION BEGAN...

- In the Fall of 1844 - The first Harvard boat club is organized by Horace Cunningham '46 and his classmates when they purchase an eight-oared boat, the Star, and re-christen it the Oneida.
- In the Fall of 1846 - Harvard Crew wins its first race against an outside opponent. Members of the Class of 1847, competing in the Huron, defeat the Wave of Boston over an approximate two-mile course on the Charles River.
- On August 3, 1852 - Harvard and Yale meet in America's first intercollegiate athletic event-a crew race on Lake Winnepesaukee in Center Harbor, NH. Harvard wins the two-mile contest and sets into motion a rivalry that thrives to this day.

HARVARD CREW TODAY? Join us at the COLUMBIA RESTAURANT on January 14, 2016 to find out!

The Columbia Restaurant in Sarasota opened in 1959 and is now the oldest restaurant in Sarasota, with huge windows that connect its hand-painted tile dining room to a sprawling covered patio. The space marries the intimacy of the indoors with the fresh air outside. The menu spotlights Spanish fare – paella packed with fresh clams, shrimp, and mussels; bean soup with chorizo; hot Cuban bread. Everything goes well with a pitcher of fresh sangria. If you go before mid-May, you can still order fresh stone crabs – chilled, steamed, or broiled with Latin spices. Enjoy dinner while surrounded by St. Armands’ paradise of lush tropical landscaping that creates an international atmosphere of friendly warmth, enduring elegance and timeless style, and after your meal, stroll around the circle that resembles an elegant European market with bright tropical landscaping. It is home to more than 130 shops that pamper customers from all over the world.
